HAD NO PART IN MADERO'S DEATH

Huerta Denies Connect With Murder.

IT'S "PROFESSIONAL SECRET" Says Former Ruler—Washington Heads Unfair To Mexico, He Charges.

RESIGNED FOR PEACE ONLY

New York, April 17.—Vehemently asserting that he had nothing to do with the death of Francisco Madero, Gen. Victoriano Huerta, former Provisional President of Mexico, issued a lengthy signed statement here, setting forth what he termed his side of the Mexican question. Gen. Huerta declared that he knew who was responsible for Madero's death, but that he was keeping it as a "professional secret."

Gen. Huerta's statement reviews the history of the Madero revolution, his own accession to the provisional presidency, and concluded with the assertion that "my country cannot be conquered." Sixteen millions of men, women and children would have to be killed before Mexico would submit to an invader, he asserted.

The heads of the Washington Administration, he declared, had not been fair to Mexico, had been misled by false statements, and if they had been in Mexico for thirty days "they would have changed their theoretical, erroneous ideas." Had it not been for the embargo on the exportation of arms from this country, Gen. Huerta indicated that his army would have prevailed over those opposed to it.

The former Provisional President reiterated the assertion he made when he left Mexico last year, that he had resigned from his position only because he hoped to bring peace to his country.

He pointed out that in the eight months that have elapsed since that date the situation in Mexico had become "too sad for me to analyze deeply."

"Anarchy is too soft a word to call it," he said. Mexico would eventually be saved, but by a Mexican. Who that would be he did not know.

Gen. Huerta declined in response to questions to give any inkling as to his future movements. He denied the report that he would go to San Antonio, Texas, or any other point near the Mexican border. Discussing the death of Madero, he said:

"That is a professional secret. Lawyers have secrets, doctors have secrets. I am a soldier. Why should not a soldier have secrets? It is not through friendship for anyone that I am withholding the information. It is professional duty. The time will soon come when my name will be vindicated, and, as Gen. Lee said of Gen. Jackson, the world will say of me I stood like a stone wall submitting to the ignominy and insults that have been heaped upon me."

"It has been said that you betrayed the confidence of President Madero. Is it so?" he was asked. Gen. Huerta straightened up proudly, his eyes flashed, and bringing his clenched fists against his breast, he replied:

"No—I swear it. I was in no way responsible for his death. It has been one of the big tortures of my life. I am sorry I have to keep the secret. Although I am of a different race than you gentlemen, I am a man."

"All Humbug," Says Romero.

Seattle, Wash., April 17.—"That's all humbug," said Col. M. Perez Romero, recently appointed Carranza minister to Japan, and brother to Mrs. Francisco Madero, widow of the late President of Mexico, last night, when shown a copy of a statement issued in New York yesterday by Gen. Victoriano Huerta, former provisional President of Mexico, disclaiming responsibility for the death of Mr. Madero.

"Iregarding the question of who actually shot President Madero, the fact remains," said Col. Romero, "that Gen. Huerta was in power and could command the armed forces of the country. President Madero was his prisoner and while in his power was assassinated. How Huerta can attempt to evade responsibility for his death is inconceivable.

"I was an eye witness to all the happenings of those tragic days except for seven hours from 10 o'clock at night until 5 o'clock in the morning, when Mr. Madero was killed. At 5 o'clock I traced the automobile to the penitentiary and there saw pools of blood behind the prison, and was told by persons coming away that there the President had been shot by the soldiers.

"These facts have all been gone over, time and again. It is useless for Gen. Huerta to disclaim responsibility."

COULDNT CONTROL HIS IMPULSE TO SURRENDER

Ellijay, Ga., April 17.—Austin Wright, who killed his cousin, John Wright, in this county 20 years ago, surrendered himself to Sheriff of Gilmer county, to-night.

The Wrights were both young men when the killing took place and were chums, but in a quarrel about a girl Austin cut John in the leg, inflicting a wound from which he bled to death.

Austin Wright immediately left the country, and had never been heard from until to-night. He went to Macon county, North Carolina, and assumed the name of John Robinson. He married a Miss Hattie Roland and has a son 17 years old and a daughter 9 years old. He prospered and gained prominence in the community.

When the train reached Ellijay, Wright got out. He says he doesn't know why, but when the conductor called out for Ellijay an impulse stronger than he could resist caused him to leave the train and go to the jail and surrender to the Sheriff.

He immediately had the Sheriff to wire his son what he had done. He was indicted for murder at the May term of the Gilmer Superior Court in 1888 and will be tried at the May term next.

RENO'S DIVORCE COLONY EXHIBITS GREAT JOY

Reno, April 16.—Reno last night was the Reno of old—the scene of restored divorce colony festivities. Not since the former colony was told by the Legislature of 1913 to depart from this State, has this city witnessed such a night. Although the revived old Divorce Law has been in operation only a month, prospective divorce seekers are coming on nearly every train.

The 150 who already constitute the present colony were out in force and gay participants in the festivities until early morning hours.

Taylor—Handley.

One of the most beautiful weddings of the season occurred at the home of the bride on Clear Run, when Miss Jessie Taylor and Mr. James Handley were united in marriage Sunday, April 11, at 6 p. m. The attendants were Miss Louella Hoover and Mr. Oscar Wade. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. E. Fuqua.

The bride was attired in a blue silk messaline and the groom wore a suit of blue. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Taylor and one of Clear Run's most popular young girls. The groom is the oldest son of Mrs. A. T. Handley and a prosperous farmer.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for the home of the groom, where they will reside. Their many friends wish them much happiness and a long, successful life.

ALLEGED LEADER POSSUM HUNTERS

Convicted and Given Four Years and Day.

PROMINENT BUTLER CITIZEN Witness Recounts Story Of Dire Threats Made By the Defendant.

OTHER CASES ARE POSTPONED

Bowling Green, Ky., April 15.—P. C. Jenkins, a prominent citizen of Butler county, and alleged leader of the "Possum Hunters" who are charged with having whipped members of the Webster family, near Morgantown, was this morning found guilty and sentenced to four years and a day in the penitentiary.

The case of Jenkins, with a number of others arrested on the same charge, was transferred by Judge Moss from Butler to Warren and the trial of Jenkins occupied several days. The trials of his alleged accomplices will not be called until the September term of court.

The case against Jim Pewley, charged with burning the foot bridge over Barren river here, also was postponed until September.

Jenkins and his associates were charged with having whipped Mrs. Katherine Webster and her daughter an' son in Butler county, and the case has been followed with great interest in this section. Mrs. Webster, in her testimony, positively identified Jenkins as one of the band which visited their home, and the defense attempted to prove an alibi.

The case went to the jury last night at 10 o'clock and the verdict was returned at 8:30 this morning.

The most damaging evidence against Jenkins since the statement of the Websters, was given by County Clerk Moates, of Butler county.

In substance he said that a few days after the call of the special session of the grand jury by Judge Moss, Jenkins stated to him it wouldn't do for the court to hold a special session of the grand jury; that they wouldn't stand for it, and if done, 300 or 400 men would come in and sweep the town (Morgantown) clean as the floor; that they had the best of guns, which shone like electric lights on the barrels, and they didn't any more care to be shot at than a brick wall.

They had demonstrated that fact the night they were at Webster's, which didn't frighten them. "They went right in, got their possum, laced him up right nicely, and then went about their business."

Jenkins told him, he said, that 80 per cent of the populace of Livermore, came to an untimely end last night at 7 o'clock, by drowning. The man, who is 45 years of age, was a raftsman on the Little Archie on Green river for H. N. English. When near the landing Young attempted to jump from the top of the boat down onto the guard, but missed his footing and fell into the water, drowning before assistance reached him. He leaves a wife and several young children. He was highly thought of by his neighbors.

The little town on the Green river was thrown into a good deal of gloom by the passing of Mrs. Kerick, whose body was found in the early morning, and then at the close of the day, by the drowning of Young.

A sister of Mrs. Kerick, Mrs. Bettie Taylor, arrived in Livermore about 8 o'clock in the morning for a short visit to Mrs. Kerick. She was unable to obtain an answer to her knocking, and opened the door and went into the house. She saw Mrs. Kerick stretched at length upon the floor of the living room.

Aid was quickly summoned and the matter reported to the coroner, who had an examination made of the body. A jury returned a verdict that the woman had come to her death from natural causes.

Continuing, Jenkins is alleged to have said, according to Moates' testimony, that the good men of Huntsville approved of the work they were doing, and it was not their intentions to intrude upon but to run in harmony with the law and go after things the court could not reach.

Jenkins, when placed on the stand, did not deny the testimony of Moates, but stated he was partly repeating what he had heard and partly joking.

Seven Indicted.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., April 15.—Seven men were indicted in connection with the recent activities of night riders in Missouri by the Federal grand jury, which adjourned here yesterday. Judge D. P. Dyer, of St. Louis, under whose instructions the jury carried on its investigation, announced that heavy sentences would be imposed on all men convicted in his court of participation in the night riders' work.

Letters have been sent recently to large land owners and merchants of this vicinity threatening the destruction of their lives and property unless wages were raised, rents lowered and negroes driven from the district.

PREACHED AGAIN WHERE HE PREACHED 50 YEARS AGO

A day long to be remembered by the people of the Cooper and Cromwell communities was last Sunday, April 18, when in the presence of a very large and appreciative audience Rev. B. F. Jenkins preached to them from the same text from which he preached his first sermon in the same schoolhouse just fifty years before. The text was Revelations 11th chapter and 15th verse.

In his discourse he referred quite often and very feelingly to many events and remembrances of his early life and those who had been his friends, companions and associates of his youth. He very pathetically spoke of the fact that in all the vast audience that greeted him upon this occasion there was no one present who had heard him fifty years before.

During his fifty years in the ministry he has been the pastor of 41 churches, conducted 293 protracted meetings, has seen converted under his preaching 41 Baptist ministers, has baptized 23 of them, and in all his work has baptized approximately 10,000 souls.

He was recently called to the pastorate of Bell's Run church, a church he had served as pastor during his ministry for 21 years.

At the close of his discourse the audience stood and joined in singing "Am I a Soldier of the Cross," while every one present crowded around this grand old man, giving him a warm, hearty hand-clasp, while many eyes were filled with tears and many prayers were expressed for the continued health, happiness and usefulness of this grand old soul who during his fifty years in the ministry has done so much for the moral and spiritual uplift of this Green River country.

TRAGIC EVENTS BRING GLOOM TO LIVERMORE

Livermore, Ky., April 16.—Mace Young, a well known laborer of Livermore, came to an untimely end last night at 7 o'clock, by drowning. The man, who is 45 years of age, was a raftsman on the Little Archie on Green river for H. N. English. When near the landing Young attempted to jump from the top of the boat down onto the guard, but missed his footing and fell into the water, drowning before assistance reached him. He leaves a wife and several young children. He was highly thought of by his neighbors. The little town on the Green river was thrown into a good deal of gloom by the passing of Mrs. Kerick, whose body was found in the early morning, and then at the close of the day, by the drowning of Young.

ELECTION CONSPIRACY CASE

Departure Kept Secret, But Small Crowd Gathers At the Station.

THE 15 AND THEIR SENTENCES

Indianapolis, Ind., April 18.—With smiling countenances and with Mayor Donn M. Roberts leading, the fifteen prisoners convicted in the Terre Haute election conspiracy case and sentenced to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., by Judge Anderson, started on the trip to prison at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon. They are due to arrive at Leavenworth at 9:45 o'clock Monday morning.

Due to the fact that the time for the departure was not made public here, only a small crowd was at the station as the prisoners, each accompanied by a special Deputy United States Marshal, boarded the special car attached to a Pennsylvania passenger train.

While the Terre Haute men were being placed in line in the jail yard preparatory to marching to the railway station, the eighty-two who were given jail sentences for their part in the conspiracy, shouted good-bye to those on their way to prison and joined in passing good-natured jokes back and forth.

The prisoners were not shackled, but a guard walked beside each prisoner, accompanied him into the car and occupied the seat beside him. United States Marshal Mark Storin was in charge, and as soon as the newspaper men climbed aboard, ordered that the doors be locked.

None of the wives or relatives of the prisoners was permitted to accompany the men from the jail to the station. Many of the relatives of the men had been to the jail during the morning, and several of the prisoners wore flowers on their lapels.

Six other who received prison sentences and who withdrew from the appeal early in the week, had promised Judge Anderson to start for prison not later than noon to-day. Since withdrawing from the appeal, the men had been at liberty at their homes in Terre Haute. The six are: Arthur Gillis, John Messelink, Joseph O'Marra, George S. Overn, Joseph Strauss and Maurice Walsh, all of whom had received sentence of a year and a day in prison.

The fifteen taken to prison and the sentences they received are:

Mayor Roberts, six years and a fine of $2,000.

Dennis Shea, who resigned last week as Sheriff of Vigo county, five years and $1,000 fine.

Eli H. Redman, Judge of the Circuit Court, five years and $1,000 fine.

Edward Driscoll, Assistant City Engineer, three years; fine, $500.

George Ehrenhardt, member of Board of Works, three years; fine, $500.

GERMAN CHANCE OF VICTORY GONE

According To French Official Review.

ADVANTAGE WITH THE ALLIES

In Matter of Men, Equipment, Supplies and Confidence, Is Declared.

PHILOSOPHY OF TWO SYSTEMS

London, April 16.—The ninth and tenth installments of the French official review of the war, which in previous chapters has dealt with the German effort, the using up of German troops and officers and the material and moral wastage of the German army, deal respectively with military supplies and the conclusions of the war up to date as found by the writer.

Under the caption, "the scarcity of primary materials for projectiles," the review points out that the chief explanation of the imperfections noted in the German projectiles is to be found in the bad quality of the primary material. It declares there is "a terrible scarcity of rubber," and that still more serious is "the scarcity of copper, which is indispensable for the manufacture of shells and munitions." The same condition, it is asserted, holds true of saltpetre and of the nitrates necessary for its manufacture.

The review then deals at great length and presents tables and quotations from German writers to prove the scarcity of food supplies within the empire. It says:

"It has been observed on several occasions that the revictualing of the German army has not been as regular as that of the French. In the case of the battle of the Marne and in the weeks which followed, the German prisoners were famished and declared they had eaten nothing for several days."

In the tenth and last installment the writer proceeds to draw his conclusions and says, in writing of the "offensive faults of the French army and its leaders":

"We have before us two systems. The one, the German system, demanded a rapid success at the opening of the campaign, a success against France before the Russians could come upon the field, before the British reserves could intervene, before the economic trouble could make itself felt. Hence the creation in all hearts of new corps, whether or not they could be kept up for a long time. By predetermination the victory was to be immediate. Now this necessary victory the Germans did not have."

"The other system, the French system, consists, with the advantage of the freedom of the seas, in maintaining in good and complete form a number of sufficient formations and in creating new ones only in the measure in which they can with certainty be kept up and suitably and durably equipped with regimental organization.

"This system is established with a view to a prolonged war. Of these two systems, which after six months of trial shall triumph? To put the question is to answer it. The Germans can no longer oppose us with forces superior to ours. They will therefore not be able to do in the future what they could not do in the past when they were one-third more numerous than ourselves. Consequently our final victory must follow by the imperious necessity of the concordant force of facts and figures. Our effort, too, is from now onward directed toward that offensive which we shall take at our own good time and the issue of which cannot be doubtful."

The May Woman's Home Companion

In the May Woman's Home Companion 134 moving picture films are recommended as being thoroughly wholesome and worth while. Along with these recommendations Helen Duey writes an interesting article entitled, "Better Films for Children," full of practical suggestions to parents. This is all a part of the movement for better films which this periodical is carrying on.

In the same issue Ida M. Tarbell writes a stirring and thought-provoking article entitled, "The Twenty-Cent Dinner"; William Armstrong presents a character sketch of the young woman who will some day be Empress of Austria; Anna Stees Richardson contributes "Mrs. Larry's Adventures in Thrift"; Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of Broadway Tabernacle in New York City, writes a nature sermon entitled, "Behold the Birds"; Albert Lee contributes another article in his series, "Made-in-America" Vacations"; Roger H. Dennett writes on "The Diet of Young Children"; Paul J. Meylan contributes "The Man Who Wanted to Die"; and several other articles on various family and household subjects are included.

A report from Pittsburgh says: "Business is reviving in the sheet and tinplate mills throughout the country, according to John Williams, President of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, who has returned from a visit to a number of mill towns in the district. Very few plants, he said, were working on war contracts, the business being for domestic consumers."

One report from Nashville, Tenn., says: "The total bank clearings, real estate transfers and building permits in Nashville for the month of March show great increases over the preceding month of February, and these figures, indicating the real substantial trend of business in Nashville, speak louder than words."

The monthly Financial Letter of the National City Bank of New York says: "Thirty million dollars of the gold sent to Ottawa in trust for the Bank of England during the first weeks of the war has been returned to the United States. Within the last few days new low records have been touched by exchange on London and exchange on Paris."

"Enormous blocks of American securities have been returned by European holders, but the consumptive demand of the American market has been sufficient to absorb what was offered. No disturbance whatever has resulted from this liquidation, although it came at a time when the markets were seriously unsettled by the war news and by the fear that our export trade would be materially interfered with. It is obvious, however, that there is little ground for such alarm. Preliminary figures covering the March exports show new high records."

To the United States, President Is Told.

SUMMARY OF THE CONDITIONS

Gathered From Day To Day
By Secretary Redfield,
Is Presented.

MORE OPTIMISM IN EVIDENCE

Washington, April 16.—The White House made public to-night a summary of Business Conditions, gathered from day to day by Secretary Redfield and submitted to the President. The statement from the White House explains that what is given out is not to be considered a report, but information gleaned by a careful "reading of newspapers and other publications received at the Department of Commerce."

A report from Pittsburgh says:

"Business is reviving in the sheet and tinplate mills throughout the country, according to John Williams, President of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, who has returned from a visit to a number of mill towns in the district. Very few plants, he said, were working on war contracts, the business being for domestic consumers."

general business situation is the greater degree of optimism which is growing. Business is still largely confined to war requirements. In other lines trade is backward, but this may change with warmer weather. Bank clearings do not show much improvement. Railroad earnings are gradually increasing. Winter wheat shows about 12½ per cent. increase in acreage with conditions favorable. Cotton exports are increasing.

"The country should shortly begin to feel the effects of the spirit of economy which has so long been a dominant factor. People have saved money and will continue to save.

"It is encouraging to note a betterment in the labor market. This not only is substantial proof of improving general trade, but means a larger consumptive demand for the necessities of life."

Another Boston report says: "The outlook in the labor market as viewed from the Boston branch of the Massachusetts State Free Employment Office is encouraging. There has been a steady and gradual improvement in all kinds of labor, but conditions still continue far from normal."

WORSHIPERS ARE KILLED AS BOMBS HIT CHURCH

PRISONERS GET HOME COMFORTS

In This Respect Germany Is Proficient.

CAMP IS DIVIDED INTO PENS

Where Good Food Is Provided

—Discipline Maintained
By Captive Officers.

ADEQUATE GUARD IS ON HAND

—Germany (name of town deleted by censor) April 16.—On the crest of a hill overlooking a broad valley 15 acres of flat land have been inclosed by a wooden fence seven feet high, surmounted by two lines of barbed wire. The road on one side is a main highway. Peasant carts, wagons, motor cars and pedestrians pass untroubled by the fact that behind these boards are more than 8,000 men of various races and tongues, prisoners of war. It is one of the German prison camps where English, French, Russians, Belgians and Turcos are detained.

I was escorted through the camp by an officer. "This is the quarantine pen," he announced to me, as soon as we had entered. "We keep all newly arrived prisoners here for a period of four weeks to make sure that they have no diseases."

Most of the prisoners in this "pen" were civilians. There were Belgians, considered to be unruly or insubordinate, who had been removed from Belgium and interned promiscuously with the soldiers. I noticed that they were all of the arms-bearing age.

The camp is divided into 10 of these "pens." Each contains four long, low buildings, built of stained pine boards, and standing on brick foundations. Each building accommodates 200 men and is heated by 10 coke stoves, lighted by electricity and ventilated by windows. The sleeping mattresses are of unbleached ducking, filled with "excelsior" or wood shavings, two feet thick, and placed on the floor.

The blankets seemed rather scanty, and most of the men, I was told, used their greatcoats as coverlets. In the center of the room were long tables at which 12 men can sit comfortably for meals and games. Outbuildings, containing kitchen, stores, lavatories, &c., are also provided. All the buildings are new and specially constructed for housing prisoners.

After a cursory inspection, as the men were out of their quarters at the time, we passed to the adjoining pen. In all respects identical with the first, the building was more interesting, as it was full of prisoners, chiefly French, though with a sprinkling of Belgians, and a few "black" troops. I talked with several of the men.

Many had been here for four or five months, but they all were in good spirits and optimistic. They asked whether the Russians were in Berlin, and said they daily expected to hear the boom of friendly guns.

"All the discipline is maintained by their own noncommissioned officers," my guide remarked, "they have full charge, also full responsibility. If anything goes wrong, a lookout touches a bell, and then, of course, we take action."

He thereupon pointed to the batteries of artillery posted on elevated platforms at various points of vantage. I also saw lookout towers in which sentries were stationed, who commanded a clear view of each pen.

By the time we had reached the sixth pen we found the men getting their noonday meal. The food is prepared and cooked by the prisoners. The chief meal of the day is at noon, and consists of a big tin bowl of meat and potato soup and a piece of black bread. I tasted the soup and it seemed very palatable. For breakfast I was told the prisoners received coffee, with sugar and bread, and in the evening bread with sometimes potatoes or other vegetables; in all one pound of bread a day for each man.

Each pen has a store which is open at stated hours. A printed price list of the articles sold hangs in front of the booth. Soap, brushes, shirts, towels, German dictionaries and French-English-German grammars are the chief items. No food, chocolate or tobacco is sold, but the purchase of German grammars is encouraged, and the prices charged are low. I believe 6 cents. "You see we want the English and French to learn our language, to understand us better," my escort remarked to me.

In one of the buildings I came upon a group of British soldiers. They were guardsmen—tall, splendid fellows, far excelling in physique and bearing all the other prisoners. Questioned about their food, they said it was good, but one man spoke up. "We want more bread." I was informed that the allowance was the same as that of the German soldiers.

NEW SUBMARINE TRULY A WONDER

Now Being Built For the U. S. Navy.

GREATEST BOAT OF ITS KIND

In World—Has Many Advantages Over Other Types Of Like Vessels.

CAN SHOOT FROM ALL ANGLES

The submarine Schley, which is to be built at once by the Electric Boat Company at Groton, Conn., will be by far the most interesting and the most dreaded of all submarines, and in its design and construction the naval architects have taken big strides. Up to date the largest submarine, as far as can be learned, is that building is under 200 feet in length. This is the class F of the British, which has not yet made its appearance unless it has been commissioned recently and is being used secretly. The boats of this class are to have a surface speed of 20 knots. The largest of the German boats are of 800 tons displacement with a cruising radius of 2,000 miles and make, so it was planned, 18 knots on the surface and 7 knots submerged.

The Schley is to be of the Holland or diving type. It will displace approximately 1,100 tons at the surface and as much more when submerged. The length will be 262 feet over all, or about 65 feet longer than any submarine now projected by any European Power. This craft is to be driven by Niseco Diesel oil engines which will develop 4,000 horse-power, and these engines will enable the craft to maintain a speed on the surface of 20 nautical miles an hour. When submerged the vessel will be driven by electric motors, and will then make 11 nautical miles an hour.

The Schley will be from 11 to 15 nautical miles an hour. At these speeds it will have a cruising radius of 7,000 miles. That is, it will have sufficient fuel capacity to enable it to cruise across the Atlantic and back again without replenishing its fuel oil. This is an advantage that no other submarine present projected has and will make the Schley the most destructive vessel of its kind ever built.

With its speed it will be exceedingly difficult for any vessel to avoid its attack, as merchant ships are able to do in many cases with the present German submarines.

It had been suggested that this vessel, instead of using heavy oil engines, should be fitted with steam power, using the high speed turbine; but this idea was not practical for a vessel of this kind because if steam were used it would take from 30 to 40 minutes to prepare the vessel for diving. With an internal combination engine the diving can be done instantly, because when the motor is shut off there are no fires to draw or bank, no boilers to cool; and again when the vessel comes to the surface the oil motors can be started instantly. From a military point of view it has been decided

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS LINES

All Over the Country, According To Treasury Department Report.

Washington, April 16.—Business conditions throughout the country are showing a marked improvement in almost all lines, according to reports from the national bank examiners made public to-night by the Treasury department. Eighty of the ninety examiners in the United States reported permanent improvement in business. Maine is said to be the only State where real depression exists.

These reports are announced to be the result of careful observations, supplemental to regular reports on the business conditions made monthly to the controller of the treasury.

The statement attributed depression to the unusual conditions abroad but says business here has been stabilized through the application of economy.

"Pronounced hopefulness is prevalent in nearly every district," says the announcement. "Agricultural conditions in general are excellent, and commercial lines, with comparatively few exceptions, are enlarging their activity, mainly through an increased demand. Manufacturing is on the increase, and those industries having orders for supplies from the foreign countries continue especially active. The South is showing marked improvement."

Of Louisville the report says the present and immediate outlook is good.

QUEEN OF THE BELGIANS SEEMS MUCH DEPRESSED

London, April 16.—"I saw the Queen of the Belgians to-day," writes a Scotch soldier from the front to relatives in London. "I had gone up to the ruined cathedral with one of my officers for the afternoon service. While we were there the Queen arrived.

"She came unexpectedly. No one, so far as I know, dreamed of her coming. She was dressed with what I can only describe as religious simplicity—a severely plain costume and a tourist cap. Her companions were a Belgian officer and her physician. So far as I could hear, no word was spoken.

"Her Majesty fascinated me. She was as one who is weighed down with grief; her eyes were the eyes of one who has cried long, and could cry no more. She stood looking at the burnt and battered walls of the sacred building, a weinspired, broken, crushed. She acknowledged our salute with a melancholy smile."

AMERICAN PASSPORTS TO BE REFUSED TOURISTS

Washington, April 16.—Passports to European tourists will be refused by the State Department until the dangers of travel abroad have been lessened. Unless one is going abroad on business and is able to satisfy the State Department of the seriousness of his mission, passports may be refused. The new rule is presumed to have been influenced by the death of Leon C. Thrasher, an American, on the steamer Falaba, which was torpedoed by a German submarine.

ed that vessels of this type equipped with steam will prove very inefficient. There will in all probability be a class in the United States navy of these fast submarines, and the one now building is only the first.

From a military point of view the Schley will be of enormous value in both offensive and defensive service. The boat will have considerable freeboard to make it seaworthy under all conditions in the open sea. It will have an elevated bridge in addition to a conning tower, and this will make it practically a small gunboat when used on the surface. It will carry a number of guns of small caliber and machine guns, and in addition will be fitted with 10 torpedo tubes. These tubes will be at all angles, and it will not be necessary to maneuver the vessel into some certain position to send forth its weapon of destruction, but it will be able to discharge ahead, broadside and astern.

The interior of this vessel, too, will be more like that of the warship of her size. She will have more comfortable quarters for officers and men; be heated, well stored with fresh air and carry supplies that will last for a lengthy cruise. It is expected that the Schley will be ready for service next year, and work will be pushed as fast as possible to get her out early. The cost of the Schley will be $1,350,000.—[New York Sun.]

MONTH'S PANAMA CANAL TOLLS EQUAL $103,219

Washington, April 16.—Ninety-two vessels, carrying 424,606 tons of freight, passed through the Panama Canal during February, maintaining a daily average of more than 15,000 tons which had been handled during the three preceding months.

Tolls collected for the month amounted to $403,219, bringing the total of canal tolls collected to $2,365,258.

Coastwise cargoes have amounted to 41 per cent. of the total traffic, or 1,071,937 tons since the canal was opened, while the Pacific Coast has shipped 572,786 tons directly to Europe by the waterway route.

PRISONERS AT WORK ON LINCOLN-JACKSON WAY

Elizabethtown, Ky., April 16.—County Road Engineer R. P. Franks has begun work on the Lincoln and Jackson Way under State aid, and is ditching and grading the road on the lower end.

The county Thursday began working the city and county prisoners on the Lincoln and Jackson Way. The county has purchased a movable cage sufficient to hold twelve men, and will confine the prisoners in the cage at night to prevent escape. Most of the prisoners confined in jail are guilty of violating the local option law, and the cage, it is thought, will stop "bootlegging" in the county and city.

SOME SPECIMENS OF FREAK LEGISLATION

As Evidence By Bills Recently
Introduced In Certain States.

Every year sees the introduction of freak bills into the legislatures of one or more States, but the spring of 1915 seems to have capped the climax. The freak legislators have run mad. Hardly a State has escaped. It is the fashion of the press to poke fun at Kansas, which may be depended upon to come to the front with something foolish in the way of legislation. And although the Sunflower State has lived up to her glowing reputation in the present session, her companions in the sorority of States have not fallen far behind. Most of the new laws have been introduced for the purpose of prohibiting something or other. Here are a few, culled from one day's exchanges:

To prohibit the catching of frogs.—Minnesota.

To prohibit the use of face powder, rouge, hair dye or bleach, the piercing of ears and the wearing of earrings.—Kansas.

To compel chickens to go to roost before 7 a. m. To provide that bulls driven along the road at night shall wear lights.—Colorado.

Providing that all weeds and plants which cause hay fever shall be removed from the roadsides. Bachelors to pay an annual tax of $5 per head. Prohibiting the wearing of whiskers by doctors and dentists.—Massachusetts.

Compelling the National Guard to do ninety days work each year on the roads and bridges of the State. Requiring dealers in stock foods to pay an annual license of $25 a year. Prohibiting free lunches.—Nebraska.

Compelling churchgoers to leave their firearms outside.—Texas.

Prohibiting treating. Prohibiting the giving of tips to barbers, waiters, porters, hat snatchers, etc. Taxing bachelors of 30 years of age $50 per annum. Licensing cats $1 per head per annum.—Illinois.

To furnish lumber jacks with individual bathtubs.—Minnesota.

NEGROES ARE LEAVING KENTUCKY, CENSUS SAYS

Washington, April 16.—A bulletin on negroes in the United States, soon to be issued by the census bureau, shows that Kentucky is one of the 12 States which have lost more than they have gained in negro population during their history through interstate migration. All of the other States of the Union have gained more negroes than they have lost through this cause. The 11 other States in the same category as Kentucky are Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Maryland, Mississippi, Louisiana, Delaware and Maine. The greatest net gain in negro population through interstate migration is 105,516 by Arkansas, a Southern State.

The bulletin shows "an increasing tendency towards home ownership, a marked increase in the percentage of school attendance, a pronounced decrease in the percentage of illiteracy, a decrease in the mortality rate, and an increase in the proportion of church membership."

The negro population of the United States increased from 757,208, or 19.3 per cent. of the total population in 1790, to 9,827,763, or 10.7 per cent. of the total in 1910.

Georgia holds the palm with 1,76,987 negroes, while Louisville is named as one of the cities with a negro population of 10,000 or more.

Meeting for the first time since 1912, as pallbearers at a funeral, Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft shook hands. Come to think of it, it was at a funeral they met the last time before that—a political funeral that made them both ex-Presidents.

Those Republican papers that are making some ado over the alleged mismanagement of Kentucky's affairs and casting aspersions on the present administration, ought to explain to the public how the State fared under Republican rule that just preceded it.

Gen. Huerta, former Provisional President of Mexico, interviewed by newspaper correspondents in New York, declared that he had nothing to do with the death of Francisco Madero, but said he knew who was responsible for this dastardly deed, assuming that it is a "professional secret." We have never been much in favor of the "sweating" process to learn the details of crime, but here seems a case well worthy of its full application.

Next Sunday is "Go-to-Sunday-School" day in Kentucky and it should be heartily observed by everybody able to attend services, whether they are accustomed to going or not. No one can over-estimate the highly moral and religious effect of attending Sunday School. Some of the most tender memories of older people cluster about their early Sunday School days. Sunday School is not only a stepping-stone to the church, but it imbues children and older people with the spirit of reverence and right-living that lasts throughout life.

The Kentucky Sun, published at Louisville, the State organ of the Republican party, says:

"There are a lot of Republicans in this neck o' the woods that remind us of razor-back hogs that never come up except at feeding time, when they'll squeal louder and eat more swill than all the balance of the herd. They ought to be whacked on the snout whenever they come around the trough. They're fit for neither meat nor lard. The more you feed 'em, the louder they squeal and the leaner they grow. It's their nature to run wild and feed on mast, and you can't domesticate 'em or make 'em of any use. Besides, they contaminate the herd."

It would be hard to find words in the English language to more fittingly describe a Republican chronic office-seeker. The Sun sizes up this critter more adequately than any Democratic editor could hope to do.

April 19.—The greatest drought prevails in this locality ever known at this season of the year. We have not had a rain to amount to anything since the snow and ice melted in January. Wheat and meadows are suffering for want of rain and nothing planted in the gardens can germinate or sprout until we have rain.

Saturday evening was conference meeting at the Baptist church. The Rev. W. M. Stallings, of Smith's Grove, Ky., was called to the pastorate of the church. Bro. Stallings has been pastor of the Baptist church at Smith's Grove eleven years and comes highly recommended as an able divine. He will live in the Baptist parsonage and serve Beaver Dam half time; the balance of his time will be open for other churches.

Miss Myrl Miller, who has been on an extended visit in Oklahoma and Missouri, has returned home.

Messrs. S. P. McKenney and Albert Leach are busy repairing their political fences. Indications are that they will have a good showing in the primary. It will be remembered that a Beaver Dam candidate of either party generally wins.

Rev. J. S. Dean, of Clinton, Ky., has been conducting a revival meeting at the Christian church the past week which has resulted in six additions to the church and the membership greatly revived. It will likely continue another week.

Judge J. M. Porter has sold his home in West Beaver Dam to Mr. Billy Davis. The price is not known. Judge Porter will erect a new home in the near future.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF HON. R. A. MILLER.

At the close of motion hour on the first day of the present term of court, the Hartford Bar assembled to pay tribute of respect to Hon. R. A. Miller, deceased. Hon. H. P. On motion the following committee was appointed to draft appropriate resolutions concerning the character, achievements and death of Mr. Miller: Judge T. F. Birkhead, Hon. E. M. Woodward and Hon. W. H. Barnes. The members of this committee, together with Judge J. S. Glenn, Hon. R. E. L. Shumerman and Judge John B. Wilson, were appointed as a committee to attend Mr. Miller's funeral at Owensboro. All the members of the committee named attended the funeral which took place at Owensboro Monday afternoon.

At the conclusion of the actions of the Bar above mentioned, the Bar adjourned to meet Wednesday morning of this week, at the close of motion hour, to hear the resolutions above referred to, and take such other steps as may seem proper.

Washington, April 19.—Leo M. PROHIBITION SAVED
THE PEOPLE OF POLAND

London, April 17.—"The prohibition of the use of vodka in Russia saved the people of Poland from starvation by releasing for their use the enormous potato crops planted for the distilleries," is the opinion of Ernest P. Bicknell, who has just returned from Poland, where he went on a tour of investigation for the Rockefeller Foundation War Relief Committee.

The greater part of the Russian potato crop was planted by the distillers for making vodka, and when the ukase of the Russian government put an end to this, it was predicted that the phenomenal potato output of this year would be a dead loss to the growers. The best potato land in Russia is in Poland, and the crop was being gathered when von Hindenburg began his rush on Warsaw, in the course of which the country was laid waste for miles. Fortunately for the Poles, the ravages of war did little harm to the great stores of potatoes safely stored away in underground caches.

This store now provides practically the staple food for the Poles, and those parts of Poland which raise no potatoes are being supplied by an effective system of distribution arranged by the Germans.

Due to the heavy cost of maintaining the expenditures on the Panama Canal from July 1 to March 1 exceeded the receipts.

LOCAL OPTION IS WILSON'S POSITION

Reaffirms Sentiment Of Shannon Letter.

PARTY ACTION IS DESTROYED

When Social and Moral Questions Are Made Issue, He Says.

PART OF THE CABINET IS DRY

Washington, April 17.—It was learned to-day that the President, despite the challenge of the Prohibitionists, "stands pat on the Shannon letter." This letter, written in May, 1911, by Gov. Woodrow Wilson, favoring local option as the final settlement of the liquor question, was declared to be the unflattering stand of President Woodrow Wilson to-day.

Meanwhile, the Secretaries of State and of the Navy are spreading prohibition propaganda far and wide. Mr. Bryan has made it a national issue, insofar as he is able, by saying that the Democrats should take the "dry" side of every controversy and elect "dry" men to every office, including the National Committee. Mr. Daniels has not gone so far, confining it to the States themselves.

The President's stand on the Shannon letter was reiterated to-day because of the publication of a virtual def on behalf of the "United Prohibitionists" by P. A. Baker, of Ohio, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Excusing his statement on the ground that he had been besieged with questions concerning the stand of the league toward Presidential candidates, Dr. Baker advised the party leaders that it "would be well if they consider one or two things." He added:

"The United Prohibition forces of the country will oppose the candidacy of any man who voted against the Webb-Kenyon Interstate Liquor Shipment Law or against the resolution to submit the national prohibition amendment to the States or Rights policy of dealing with the liquor traffic."

The Shannon letter has been repeatedly printed. In it Mr. Wilson asserts that he is a believer in local self-government.

"So far as I am concerned," he wrote, "I can never consent to have the question of local option made an issue between political parties in this State."

"When social and moral questions are thrust into politics," said the President, "they have destroyed party action and organization, made constructive party action impossible and thrown all other questions into the background."

RHEUMATIC PAINS RELIEVED.
Why suffer from rheumatism when relief may be had at so small a cost? Mrs. Elmer Hatch, Peru, Ind., writes, "I have been subject to attacks of rheumatism for years. The president of the Lehigh Valley railroad in a letter to President Wilson says contracts involving the expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 are soon to be awarded as a result of improved business conditions.

FRAGMENT OF TIMELY HISTORY OF TIPPERARY

The Little Irish City Made Famous By Modern Jingling Song.

Where is Tipperary? That is a question a great many people have been asking themselves since the publication of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," which has been sung at almost every entertainment in the British Isles.

Tipperary is not by any means the largest or the most beautiful town in Ireland, but it is a romantic old place, near the base of the Slieve na Muck, or Tipperary hills. These hills are a branch of the Galtee range and are noted for their wild beauty. The town is located about forty-two miles north-west of Cork on the Great Southern and Western Railroad. The quaint old place, with its folk lore and rural population, is situated in the center of a fine agricultural district, which once formed a part of the ancient kingdom of Munster.

The county of which Tipperary is the namesake and county-seat was once a palatinate, ruled by the powerful earls of Ormond. Its soil is of limestone, overlaid by a rich loam capable of yielding the finest crops. The majority of the population is engaged in farming and manufacturing. Great quantities of condensed milk and butter are produced, the butter market ranking next to that of Cork.

The town of Tipperary, the incorporation of which dates from 1819, has 7,000 inhabitants. It is governed by an elective assembly called the district council, which, as the people are greatly interested in their government, holds quarterly sessions.

Tipperary is of great antiquity, but first acquired importance by the erection of a castle there by King John. The guide points out the site to visitors, but tells them that the remains crumbled away many years ago. Henry III. founded there a monastery for Augustinians. This added a stimulus to the growth of the town. The only building of antiquity now standing is the gatehouse of this institution, a relic of departed grandeur.

When the present European struggle had reached its crisis and England entered the contest, many of the sturdy sons of Tipperary left their employment and enlisted for service with the colors. One of England's crack regiments is called the "Tipperary Tigers," in honor of the country of that name.—[Washington Star.]

Elizabethtown, Ky., April 16.—County Judge D. W. Reder has called a special term of the Fiscal Court for Monday to purchase 10,700 yards of stone, to be delivered at Upton, Sonora, Glendale and Elizabethtown to build the Jackson and Lincoln Way. Bids will be received up until to-morrow night.

PAWNED HER BODY FOR $10—PAWNED IN TROUBLE

Mose Levich, a bankrupt pawn-broker here, who holds a bill of sale for the body of Miss Dottie Morgan, now of Denver, after her death, today filed a petition in Bankruptcy Court, asking for a decision upon whether this body should be counted an asset in the settling up of the business.

Levich claimed the woman gave him the bill of sale in 1907 for the loan of $10, having no other security.

The bill of sale reads:

"Des Moines, Iowa, January, 1907.—I, Miss Dottie Morgan, of my own free will and without coercion of any kind, do hereby sell to Mose Levich my body, after death, to do with as he sees fit, for the consideration of $10."

"The said Mose Levich shall not take possession of my body until after I am dead, and that if at any time in my life I wish to make this bill of sale null and void and shall pay to Mose Levich or his assignees $10 in good and lawful money of the United States, his interest in my body shall cease.

"Miss Dottie Morgan."

Levich told the Court he feared he would lose money on the proposition now, as in case Miss Morgan died it would cost several times what the body would be worth to him to go to Denver after it. [Des Moines (Iowa) Cor. Kansas City Star.]

PIONEER WOMAN CALLED TO A BLESSED REWARD

When Mrs. Mary Jane Barnard, widow of George W. Barnard, died March 18 at the Barnard farm near Smallhouse, in this county, the life of a truly noble woman was ended, and the spirit of that woman departed to reap the blessed reward which her life had merited.

Mrs. Barnard was almost 80 years old, and a pioneer of this county. Her character was of the sterling type characteristic of the pioneers. While in no way spectacular, according to the popular conception, hers was a life which would stimulate those who came into contact with it to aspire higher, live truer, and be nobler.

One of the most attractive things about her life was the beautiful love which she had for the two things most dear to her—the home which she and her husband had established and maintained and a real home for every member of their family, and the God whom they worshiped. To her these two were closely associated because God was given an important place in the home, and was honored in the life of the home. Soon after their marriage in 1854 Mr. and Mrs. Barnard established their home on the farm where both of them died, Mr. Barnard having passed away six years ago. The comradeship of this couple was to be admired because Mr. and Mrs. Barnard truly were helpmates.

To them were born seven children, the following of whom survived: J. S. Barnard, of Earlenton, Ky.; Mrs. James C. Bennett, who resides on a farm near the old homestead which was her father's and mother's; J. H. Barnard, who lived with his parents; Mrs. Emma Nicholls, of Madisonville, Ky.; Mrs. Sam Crumbaker, who lives with J. H. Barnard, and H. W. Barnard, of Louisville, Ky. Also eighteen grandchildren and one great-granddaughter survive.

Mrs. Barnard was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, and was born May 2, 1835. When she was a young girl she became a member of the Baptist church, having been baptized by Elder Alfred Taylor. She was one of the organizers of the West Point Baptist church in 1856, and in 1897 she was one of those entering into the organization of the Smallhouse Baptist church, of which she was a devoted member at the time of her death. The life she lived bespoke the Christianity which she professed.

Funeral services were conducted March 19th at the Barnard home, Rev. Hiram Brown, pastor of the Smallhouse Baptist church, being in charge of the ceremonies. Burial was in the Equality cemetery.

MEXICAN GENERAL SAYS HE'S A PROHIBITIONIST

Gen. Villa, the noted Mexican General, in a statement made a few days ago, tells of his enforcement of orders against the sale of liquor and says that if it were in his power he would make Mexico "dry."

"Mexico will be without liquor when peace comes if it is in my power," Villa's statement says. "My country is now suffering from the liquor traffic and the children of the poor are the sufferers. The President of a nation may not be a drinking man himself, but if he permits his people to indulge in this poison, he is showing himself a weakling."

"I do not permit my officers or men to use liquor, and I am doing my best to put liquor out of business wherever possible. When my troops reach a town, I order all saloons closed. An inventory of the stock is taken and when the order is revoked the saloon is not permitted to reopen if a check of the inventory shows that he has violated the order and sold liquor. Some of my men have been shot for drunkenness and some saloon men have been executed for selling liquor to the soldiers."

The fellow who stands in his own light must expect to be thrown in the shade.

MINT JULEP.

[Dr. E. B. Pendleton, of Hartford, sent his uncle, Col. Ion B. Nall, of Louisville, a sprig of cedar not long ago with a little couplet to remind him of the old home town and received in return the following very catchy poem:]

I strode across the meadow
O'er grasses bruised and bent,
And sought the tiny brooklet
Where grows the sweetest mint—

That trodden, scents the air,
So he who treads upon it
May know that it is there.

I gathered up a handful
Of freshest sprigs about,
And took them to the shadetree
'Neath which the spring runs out—

Where crystal ice was ready
With sugar white as snow
And spirits from a stilling
Of twenty years ago.

Twas then a jolly jingle—
The ice against the glass—
Twas then a merry mingle—
The Bourbon with the grass—
A jingle, jingle, jingle,

And jangle in the straw,
As down toward the bottom
My sips began to draw.

A mingle, mingle, mingle,
And mangle of the mint,
So each replenished goblet
Was stronger of the scent,
Until I sank in slumber

Beneath that old elm tree,
And fancied all the ocean
A julep made for me.

Then many ships went sailing
Upon that peaceful main,
Some from the coast of England,
Where sports the submarine;
Some came from India's ocean

And from the far Japan,
From even Argentina,
Yet none was Mexican.

But one stood in the offing,
A glorious ship was she—
The ship that's always coming,
But never comes to me.

What dreamer hath not yearned it,
With eager, outstretched hand,
But found, upon awaking,
He'd chased a rainbow's end?

LAWS OF NEUTRALITY

GIVE CURIOUS LESSON

So far as international law applies to war, it is in one respect civilization's highest expression of hospitality. It is the one thing in this world that distinguishes between a belligerent and a neutral. It is the one thing that, properly recognized and enforced, guarantees the rights of men at war as well as the rights of men at peace.

The episode of the commerce-destroyer Prinz Eitel Friedrich ought to be instructive to those of our fellow-citizens who are doing their utmost to create ill-feeling between this country and Germany. The Eitel Friedrich reached one of our ports exhausted. It came with a confession that its latest exploit had been what we must regard as the wanton destruction of an American ship.

What we have done for this German warship, now voluntarily our prisoner, is precisely what we are doing for the merchantmen of the allies, which come and go at their own risk. We supplied the Eitel Friedrich for fresh cruises. Its failure to enter upon them was due not to our lack of hospitality, but to the power of its enemies, which it wisely refused to meet.—[New York World.]

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammatory condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and the tube must be restored to its normal condition. When this tube is restored to its normal condition, hearing will be restored forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

MOTHER SUPERIOR ROSARY HILL HOME

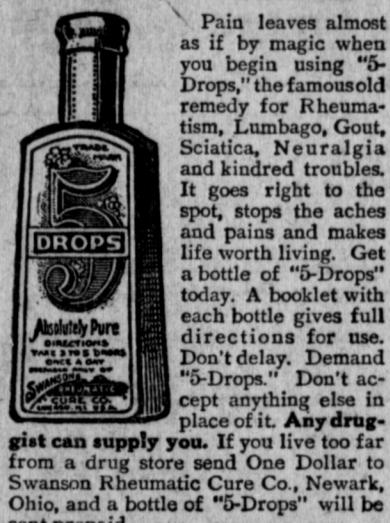

Tells How Vinol Restores Strength and Vitality to the Weak, Worn-Out Ones in Her Charge.

Rosary Hill Home, Hawthorne, N. Y.—"I have been at work among the sick and poor for nearly eighteen years, and whenever I have used Vinol for rundown, weak or emaciated patients, they have been visibly benefited by it. One patient, a young woman, was so weak and ill she could hardly creep to my door for aid, and was leaning on a friend's arm. I supplied Vinol to her liberally and in a month when she returned to thank me I hardly recognized her. She was strong, her color charming and her cheeks rounded out. These words are uttered from my heart, in order that more people may know about Vinol, as there is nothing makes me happier in the world than to relieve the sick."—Mother M. ALPHONSA LATHROP, O.S.D., Hawthorne, N. Y.

Such disinterested and reliable testimony should convince everyone of the merits of Vinol, our delicious cold liver and iron tonic to build up health and strength for all weakened and nervous conditions, whether caused from over-work, worry or chronic coughs and colds. If Vinol fails to benefit us return your money.

DIVERSIFIED FARMING IN THE GERMAN EMPIRE

Exploited As Example To Agriculturalists in the United States.

Washington, April 16.—Despite the tremendous burdens of war agriculture has probably suffered less in Germany than in the Southern States of the United States, is the opinion of Dr. P. A. Bourland, who recently returned to this country from four years in the German Empire.

"Germany's agricultural production has probably not been as much affected by the war as that of our own Southern States," said Dr. Bourland, who is now actively engaged in attempting to aid the agricultural regeneration of the South. "We were caught with 16,000,000 bales of cotton on our hands, which we could neither eat nor wear and were forced to sacrifice it to buy supplies.

"The defect in the South is fundamental. It results from a failure to make agriculture an industry.

"Germany, through her great agricultural system, laid the foundation for the support of her armies in the field and her people at home during the war. This agricultural system was as well organized as her industrial or manufacturing systems. Production, marketing and distribution had all been made the subject of scientific study and means provided for their regulation.

"When the able-bodied men were called to colors, the women—who do much of the farm work in normal times—and old men carried on the work in the fields. The only problem was to get the heavy plowing done. The women ordinarily do the binding and threshing. It would amaze you to see the enormous amount of work they can accomplish.

"While we could not adopt the German system of organization over here, its perfection cannot fail to interest. Crop diversification is practically a simple matter in Germany. Their system of Government works from the top down, while ours is built upon the individual citizen. The Government can impress its will upon the soil as easily as it impresses reservists into its military service. A good illustration was its success in practically legislating a larger sugar content into its sugar beet sugar."

KANSAS SOAP FARMS
FURNISH GOOD PRODUCT

Settlers in Western Kansas were cutting and marketing soap weed, or Spanish bayonet, to supply the demands of soap manufacturers, according to a report recently received from officers of the Kansas national forest. Manufacturers were paying $8 a ton for the plant at the railway stations, while the estimated cost of cutting, drying, baling and hauling ranges from $5 to $6. A man can ordinarily get out a ton a day. After cutting, the soap weed is allowed to dry from 60 to 90 days and then is baled up in the ordinary broomcorn baling machines. For a long time this weed has been made into a soapy decoction which the Indian and Mexican women used for washing their hair. It contains no alkali. Present-day soap manufacturers use it for toilet and wool

It is hoped that the commercial demand for soap weed will soon reach such proportions that it will not only take an otherwise useless product, but also will eradicate it from areas which could be utilized for supplying forage to cattle and sheep. Binghamton, N. Y.—After giving all his wages to his wife every week for 25 years, R. H. Walker is now suing her for a share of the money. She refuses to split up with him even though she has now eloped with another man.

"He asked me," said Mr. Cooper, "if I thought Tanlac would help his child. In reply, I stated that he could test the medicine on its own merits. The result was that he bought Tanlac for his son.

"Thinking nothing particularly of the incident, I was a little surprised a few months later to receive a letter from the jeweler, stating that Tanlac had relieved his son, who was now rosy and running about like the rest of the boys and asking me if I would accept a small token of his appreciation. I answered his letter, telling him that while I would appreciate his gift, the fact that Tanlac had accomplished the right results in his child's case was sufficiently gratifying to me.

"Shortly afterward this beautiful watch came. You can imagine my surprise. To me this gift is invaluable, because it bears a double meaning."

The famous medicine, Tanlac, can now be bought in Hartford at the Ohio County Drug Co.'s drug store, also Z. Wilbur Mitchell, Beaver Dam, Ky. [Advertisement.]

STRANGE INSRIPTION ON MOSS-COVERED ROCK

Brownsville, Ky., April 12.—On the farm of Joseph G. Madison just opposite lock No. 6 on the upper Green river there is a large moss-covered rock upon which has been chiseled in large letters this inscription: "February 28, 1707. This is the river mark." The lettering is perfect, although somewhat dimmed with age and appears to have grown in size and to have become deeper imbedded in the rock. When recently discovered by Mr. Madison the inscription was completely obscured by the moss, which has overhung and covered this rock for ages.

Edmonson county in the year 1707 was a wilderness, and how the inscription came to be put there is a mystery unsolvable by the oldest inhabitant.

Shaving a Man a Minute.
Which gives the quickest shave, the safety or ordinary razor? At the club luncheon table discussion on this important topic opinion was pretty evenly divided. Then the writer reminded them of the shaving competitions of years ago at the old Royal Aquarium, when the pick of London's Figaros fought for the blue ribbon of the profession, attended by all the paraphernalia of sport judges, timekeepers, referees and doctor and a nurse in attendance. A champion emerged from the Homeric struggle—one Teddy Weeks, whose name has been immortalized in song. He shaved a man a minute for an hour with an ordinary razor without drawing blood. Can the safety razor beat this? [London Chronicle.]

"You've made a mistake in your paper," said an indignant man, entering the editorial sanctum of a daily paper. "I was one of the competitors at that athletic match yesterday, and you have called me the well known lightweight champion."

"Well, aren't you?" inquired the editor.

"No, I'm nothing of the kind, and it's confoundedly awkward, because I'm a coal merchant." [From the National Monthly.]

WATCH WORTH FULLY $3,500

Finest Time-Piece in Kentucky
Result of Famous Medicine.

Louisville, Ky., April 19.—A very handsome watch is now on exhibition in this city.

The watch, which is the property of L. T. Cooper, the noted "Tanlac Man," is valued at $3,500, maybe a little more. Forty-seven flawless-cut diamonds are imbedded in its gold case, not to mention its equipment of pigeon-blood ruby jewels. This beautiful time-piece is exquisitely embellished with ornamentation of foreign workmanship and contains the finest Swiss movements. It is really worth seeing.

According to Mr. Cooper, the watch came into his possession through the merits of Tanlac. It happened, so he says, about this way:

In one of the large cities visited by Mr. Cooper some time ago, the young son of a wealthy jeweler suffered from a complaint which had baffled physicians of the city and Eastern specialists. The boy was anaemic, listless and not at all playful and as lively as the other little fellows of his own age. The parent said that the child's appetite was irregular, at times ravenous and that he was extremely nervous, and complained of a twitching sensation most of the time. Itching of the nose and dizziness were other symptoms enumerated by the jeweler.

"He asked me," said Mr. Cooper, "if I thought Tanlac would help his child. In reply, I stated that he could test the medicine on its own merits. The result was that he bought Tanlac for his son.

"Thinking nothing particularly of the incident, I was a little surprised a few months later to receive a letter from the jeweler, stating that Tanlac had relieved his son, who was now rosy and running about like the rest of the boys and asking me if I would accept a small token of his appreciation. I answered his letter, telling him that while I would appreciate his gift, the fact that Tanlac had accomplished the right results in his child's case was sufficiently gratifying to me.

"Shortly afterward this beautiful watch came. You can imagine my surprise. To me this gift is invaluable, because it bears a double meaning."

Self-Effacement.

"Are you going to your wife's party?" asked the old friend.

"No," replied Mr. Cumrox. "The last time we had a party I attended and couldn't find anybody to talk to."

"Then you are not a success in society?"

"No, the most I can do is to stay in hiding and not injure the prospects of mother and the girls."

PROHIBITION WAVE IS MARCHING ON IN EUROPE

According to a count made in the Library of Congress recently our Federal and State Legislatures passed 62,014 statutes during the five years from 1909 to 1913 inclusive. Even greater than this multiplicity of laws was the vast mass of decisions of court of last resort, Federal and State, which during the same five years reached the enormous total of 65,379 and now fill 630 volumes.

And yet ignorance of the law—in a thousand volumes—does not excuse. In our day of statute-making, by the rapid-fire process, Thomas Jefferson would have found greater reason than ever for declaring that the country is governed best that is governed least, and for opposing a multiplicity of laws. Not the least discouraging feature of it all is that our statesmen of the "ultra-progressive" variety have countless new laws still up their sleeves, not a few of them revolutionary invasions of the citizens' rights.

NOTED LAWYER PASSES AWAY AT OWENSBOROReuben A. Miller Succumbs To Illness—Leading Member Of the Bar.

Owensboro, Ky., April 17.—Reuben A. Miller, one of the most prominent attorneys in Kentucky, died of heart disease at his home on South Frederica street at noon today. Mr. Miller had been ill for the last three weeks, and for several days hope for his recovery had been abandoned. His health began to fail more than a year ago, when he was chief counsel for the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railroad Company, and he was forced to resign that office and also to curtail his practice for other corporations.

Mr. Miller was born in Ohio county, near the Hancock county line, at the present village of Herbert. His father was a farmer and died when Reuben was a small boy. He was sent to the public schools and later to an institution of high repute in that locality known as Ford's Seminary, and which was presided over by Prof. John Clark. He then taught one or two terms of winter school and in this way got opportunity to read Blackstone, which he did without the assistance of a tutor. He never studied in a law office except his own.

He removed to Hawesville, where he took up the study of law regularly, and, in 1879, on completing his twenty-first year, he was admitted to the Hancock county bar, where he became a leader among such lawyers as M. A. Mason, W. S. Roberts, David R. Murray, J. D. Powers, R. Y. Bush, Clifford Mooreman and James E. Stone.

He built up such a reputation as an orator he was in constant demand at educational, temperance and political meetings.

ITALY'S ARMY IS NOW SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPEDThere Are 1,200,000 First-Line
Soldiers In Arms Ready For Service.

On the Italian Frontier, via Paris, April 17.—Italy to-day has 1,200,000 first-line soldiers under arms. They are from twenty to twenty-six years of age. They are perfectly armed and equipped otherwise "to the last button."

General Zupelli, the Italian Minister of War, speaking on the military situation in Italy, said that a miracle had been accomplished, in that a country which for about twenty years had maintained a military organization merely for the preservation of peace had created what he termed one of the most perfect of war machines. The change was not easy, General Zupelli said, as was proved wherever the same work was attempted. Great Britain, for example, had faced the same problem and, though possessing greater resources, was even less prepared than Italy.

The War Minister said that the equipment of the army with weapons was superior, proportionately, to that of the German army at the beginning of the war.

Eagerness of the soldiers concentrated along the frontier to begin action is so great that their officers are compelled to hold them closely in check, for fear of disturbing border incidents.

In view of the extensive preparations which have been made, the question is asked, with increasing frequency, why Italy does not enter the war. Men in position to speak with authority say that a majority of the people prefer, and the government still hopes, to obtain territorial concessions from Austria without a rupture of friendly relations.

Weather conditions in the Alps also must be remembered in considering Italy's probable action. Snow still lies deep in the mountains and the cold is intense. Most of the passes are still closed by snow and ice.
